No. 26

AN OPPORTUNITY.

Mr. Editor: Respectability, education and honesty have now the opportunity to come to the front and with grand effect. Too long have good citizens quietly permitted other than intelligence and progressiveness to stand out prominently as representatives of the colored people of the Capital of the Nation. Apathy and despair have seemed to control the better element of the colored people here that is, as far as matters of politics are concerned. We have allowed ourselves to be dominated by a class of our people who have no just appreciation of the necessity of good citizenship, of honest, noisy, and belligerent colored men have abused and disgraced us too often. How long shall we have to tolerate our misrepresentation?

By the action of the National Republican Committee the quiet, orderly citizen, who appreciates his citizenship through primaries select intelligent, sober, and respectable delegates to a convention which will send two delegates to the St. Louis Convention June next. Will the opportunity be embraced? Why will not our ministers of the interest of good morals and good citizenship, urge upon their hearers the importance of going to the polls and voting for decency and good order. The impression is strong that the negro is a menace to civilization. The noise, the confusion, the rowdiness and drunkenness attending the political efforts heretofore of so-called leaders of our people have tended to give might to the argument of anti-suffrage extremists in this district. How much more will the argument be against us when having the opportunity to prove that decency is preferred and has power. We fail to show it?

I am antagonizing no one when I urge the people to attend the primaries. I am more concerned as to the manner of giving expression to our voice for delegates than I am as to whom the delegates shall be. We need to be public spirited and to take an interest in the public meal. The decent colored people of this community who are not the rowdies, and why should they not make themselves felt?

The onslaught of the Washington Post in its issue of the 14th inst., does clearly set forth the situation. The effort to make it appear that respectable colored citizens are opposing Colonel Johnson, or supporting some one else, an attempt to hide the real desire of respectable citizens. Many decent and respectable colored men will support

RIGHTS OF THE NEGRO ARGUED.

JONES AND HEWLETT BEFORE THE UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

Cornelius J. Jones, Esq. of Greenville, Miss., and E. Molyneux Hewlett, Esq., of Washington, D. C., are young lawyers, of whom the race may justly feel proud. Mr. Jones is a Mississippian by birth and a man who enjoys the full confidence and respect of the citizens of his State, regardless of race or color. He having occupied many places of honor, with great credit, namely, as State Legislator from 1890 to 1894 and Chairman of the Third District Congressional Executive Committee, of which he is now a member. We are also credibly informed that the judges of the courts of the State and members of the bar respect him for his manly bearing and knowledge of the law in the conduct of his cases. He believes that the redress, for the negro of any wrongs perpetrated against his race, lies in the courts, and should be fought manly along that line. This fact he has demonstrated by his manly legal contest, for three years, in an attempt to save the lives of two negroes, John Gibson and Charles Smith, who were convicted three times of murder, and not yet hanged. Mr. Jones had a reversed twice by the supreme court of Mississippi, but the last time the judgment of the trial court was affirmed. After making every effort possible in the State court, he applied to

OUR NATIONAL CHAIRMAN.

HON. THOMAS H. CARTER.

Hon. Thomas H. Carter, of Helena, Montana, was born at Junior Furnace, Scioto County, Ohio, Oct. 20, 1854. He is the son of Edward and Margaret Carter, who were born in the County of Roscommon, Ireland, and first settled in this country in the State of Maryland, moving to Ohio about 1849. The family removed from Ohio to Pana, Christian County, Illinois, in 1865. The subject of this sketch attended the public schools for a brief time and subsequently engaged in railroading, farming and school teaching. In 1875 he removed to Burlington, Iowa, and later to the State of Kentucky. In 1882 he removed to Helena, Montana, where he continued to practice his chosen profession of the law until 1888, when he was elected Delegate to represent the Territory of Montana in Congress. In 1889, the Territory having been admitted to Statehood, he was elected its first Representative to Congress. Was Chairman of the Committee on Mines and Mining in the Fifty-first Congress, and in March, 1889, was appointed by President Harrison Commissioner of the General Land Office. Took an active part in behalf of General Harrison's renomination for the Presidency at Minneapolis, and on July 16, of the same year, was elected Chairman of the National Republican Committee. In May, 1893, the full National Committee assembled at Louisville, Ky., and affirmed the action of the Executive Committee of the preceding July by electing Mr. Carter Chairman for the full term of four years, which position he now holds. In January, 1895, the legislature of Montana, assembled at Helena, elected Mr. Carter United States Senator from that State for the full term of six years, beginning March 4, 1895, and ending March 3, 1901.

Mr. Carter was married in January, 1886, to Miss Nellie L. Galen, daughter of Hon. H. F. Galen, one of the pioneer stage and transportation men of Montana. They have two children, both boys.

In person, Senator Carter is five feet seven inches high, weighs about 175 pounds, and is light in complexion. The following paragraph is taken from Joaquin Miller's new History of Montana, page 182:

"Mr. Carter's rise as a lawyer and as a public character of prominence has been phenomenal. He was achieving marked success in his profession when called to the field of politics in 1888. From that time onward, his participation in State and National affairs has developed in him a high order of statesmanship, and gained for him a reputation as a writer, orator and leader of party organization and sentiment such as is rarely given to men of such brief prominence in public affairs. He is fertile in expedient and meets every occasion with a full measure of equanimity. His originality, condensation and force of expression; his active, aggressive and sanguine temperament; his powers of physical endurance; his tact, sagacity and judgment; and his cordial and unaffected intercourse with public men, are the instrumental factors of his success in public life. As a lawyer, Mr. Carter is in the fore-front of his profession."

The American press will give Mr. Carter credit of being one of the most level-headed and sagacious men and party leaders in the American body-politic, which will undoubtedly land him in the Presidential chair some time soon.

He is the youngest National Republican leader in this country, a man of honor and integrity.

HON. CLARK H. SAMPSON.

Hon. Clark H. Sampson, of St. Louis, Mo., is one of the best known men in the West.

He is a man of remarkable ingenuity and political activity.

He was the life of the St. Louis Convention that came to this city to secure, if possible, the republican convention for this city.

He is a speaker of the first water, and much is due to him for the capture of the convention.

He was everywhere that mortal man could get and every ballot that was taken he got in possession of it and announced the same to the many hundred that surrounded the St. Louis Headquarters in the Arlington Hotel.

HON. CLARK H. SAMPSON.

Long before the ballots were taken and even when it was presumed that San Francisco would gain the prize, Mr. Sampson asserted that the convention would go to this city.

Mr. Sampson is a man of medium stature and congenial in every particular.

The St. Louis Headquarters in the Arlington Hotel were the most sought after than any other in this great hotel. Some of the most distinguished Statesmen and politicians visited the headquarters.

The republicans of this country will be royally treated when they visit St. Louis.

If the visitors are treated as well at St. Louis as the visitors were at the headquarters, it is lucky that the good judgment of the Committee be selected that great city.

THE HERO OF THE PLANTER.

Hon. Robert Smalls, of South Carolina, the Hero of the Planter is in town, with his little son, his wife having died a few months ago, which is a great loss to the distinguished negro.

General Smalls attended the meeting of the National Committee and was an attentive listener.

The Bee is under many obligations to General Smalls for a correct copy of the recent constitution of his State, in which he took such a conspicuous part.

Mr. C. M. Emrich, proprietor of the Hotel Emrich Restaurant, corner of New Jersey avenue and C street, opposite B. & O. depot, is worthy of being patronized, as he is impartial and is courteous to every one, and his goods that are served are all strictly first-class and reasonable. We suggest that he be patronized. He makes a specialty of fine to ten cent whiskey, equal to any that is sold at 15 cents at other places.

A FAIR BUSINESS MAN.

Mr. John T. Carroll is without doubt a fair business man. He has had years of experience in the business in which he is now engaged, which qualifies him to handle the many people who call to see him in a satisfactory manner. He is gentlemanly and kind, and The Bee takes this opportunity to recommend him to the people and patrons of The Bee. See advertisement in another column.

Madame Flora Batson Bergen, the Prince of all singers will soon be here in a grand concert.

STANCH AND TRUE.

We know of no business gentleman who is more friendly to the race than Mr. William L. Wells, in the language of the grateful, he is staunch and true. The Bee heartily recommends him to the people and its many friends.

Mr. Wells address is 363 M street, southwest.

A meeting of the Silver Star Republican Club, was held on last Monday night at 814 3rd street, s. w., in the 18th district. Among the organizers were J. C. Day, J. W. Harris, J. Reedman, L. Brodas and R. Brooks. J. C. Day, Secretary; R. Brooks, Sergeant-at-Arms, and J. Reedman, Chaplain.

One of the most brilliant and accomplished young lawyers is Alexander Mullooney, Esq., Assistant United States District Attorney to Hon. A. A. Birney. Mr. Mullooney is a true and dignified Southerner, who was born in Richmond, Va., in 1863, and received a common school education and graduated in law from the National University law school.

He demonstrated his ability in law, which commanded the admiration of some of his most influential friends, who offered him the position which he now occupies, to which he was appointed in 1887.

He studied architecture with the firm of Cluss & Schulte, and it is said that he is as accomplished in this profession as he is in law.

There is no young man who practices before the District bar more popular and admired more than Mr. Mullooney. He is not only a man of talent, perseverance and energy, but a determined prosecutor, and a conscientious one. He doesn't believe in prosecuting a person if he is innocent.

This is one of his characteristics which has won for him the admiration of the members of the bar.

ALEXANDER MULLOONEY, ESQ.

A person's color nor his condition does not bar him from doing his duty to the government when he believes he is right. History records the acts and noble qualities of men learned in law and architecture; history records the deeds of good men, which are bound to live after them. So will posterity emblazon on its scroll the eminent qualities of this member of the legal profession.

The North may boast of brilliant lawyers; the North may say that the brain can be found in that section, but cannot say all the humanitarians and mothers of Presidents are found there. Mr. Mullooney has a cause and right to boast of his proud State of Virginia.

When future ages begin to count the deeds of eminent statesmen, learned lawyers and gallant soldiers, Mr. Mullooney, the Adonis of the legal profession, can point with pride and admiration to the proud State of Virginia.

Judge Miller, who presides over the court in which Mr. Mullooney prosecutes government cases, has on more than one occasion paid him glowing and deserving compliments.

In statue, Mr. Mullooney is tall and erect. His hair is pretty and his attire is always of the most modern styles.

All classes and grades, the legal and other professions, irrespective of color, religion or creed, have nothing but words of praise for him.

HON. CHARLES CURTIS.

Hon. Charles Curtis, of Kansas, a member of Congress, has had Mr. Paul H. Bray appointed to a $100 position in the House of Representatives. Mr. Bray is the step-son of ex-United States Counsel Waller, who is now confined in a French prison. Mr. Curtis is from Topeka, in the Fourth District of Kansas, and is the pride of the colored people of that State.

Mr. Curtis has taken a deep interest in Mr. Waller's case and has done more than any one to have him released. He had a petition signed with more than 6000 citizens of Kansas on it, urging action, which he presented to Congress. No man deserves more credit than Mr. Curtis, in having Mr. Bray appointed to a first-class position in the House of Representatives, especially when you consider that there were over 100 white applicants for the place to which Mr. Bray was appointed. The colored Republicans of Kansas owe Mr. Curtis a debt of gratitude and The Bee is confident the people of this city will join with it. The Bee in extending gratitude to Mr. Curtis in helping one member of a deserving family, where mother and small children are in need of aid and whose husband or father is lying sick in a French prison.

On the part of the people of this city, the friends of Mr. Bray and the Waller family, on the part of the good Republicans of Kansas, The Bee takes the liberty, Mr. Curtis, to thank you for the very lucrative position, and a very honorable one at that, to which you had Mr. Paul H. Bray appointed. The Bee will say more of him in the future.

L. C. BAILEY.

The subject of this sketch, Mr. Leonard C. Bailey was born in the District of Columbia, on the first day of March, 1843, and received a common school education. When but eight years of age his father died, leaving his mother with four children to support. Young Bailey soon found employment as an apprentice with the old reliable firm of Heard & Watson, barbers and wig makers, then located in the old National Hotel building, corner Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue. So rapid was his progress that within five months he was assigned to a chair as a regular barber. Here it was that he laid the foundation of that business capacity which was so useful to him afterwards. From his early boyhood he had always manifested a disposition of energy and push, and at the age of twenty he was successfully conducting a business of his own on the principal thoroughfare of Georgetown. His affability and courteousness soon won for him that patronage he so richly deserved. To-day he is the proprietor of five of the handsomest and best paying barbershops in Washington.

It was Mr. Bailey's ambition, however, to occupy another and broader business sphere and one to which he has since proved himself peculiarly adapted.

In 1888, he conceived the idea of establishing a colored banking institution here. He succeeded in interesting a number of prominent colored business men in the project.

The result was the organization of the Capital Savings Bank, which today stands as one of the most prosperous institutions of its kind in Washington. Mr. Bailey has been the moving spirit of this institution since its organization, and it is not saying too much that its wonderful success is due to his untiring energy and his strong financial credit in this community. He devotes all of his time and talent to this institution of which he is practically the father and the head. He is also interested in many other business operations, varied in their character, but uniformly successful. He is the treasurer of eight different organizations, also the executor and administrator of many estates in the District, demonstrating his unquestionable honesty and integrity. In his religious view he is a Baptist, being one of the original founders of the Berean Baptist Church and Chairman of the Trustee Board since its foundation. He has always been a steady and conscientious member of the church, and one of its most liberal contributors. Mr. Bailey is well-known for his deeds of charity. In the alleys and back streets of Washington and Georgetown, the widows and orphans testify for his extreme kind heartedness and liberality. He is highly esteemed and loved by all. Mr. Bailey is estimated to be worth $100,000. He certainly has a record of which any one might be proud.

For honesty and integrity he stands equal to any in this country, and a man who has the respect of the entire community.

In addition to what Mr. Bailey has done, The Bee notes the following: He purchased the ground upon which the Berean Baptist Church was built. He also purchased the Reed property, where the Colored Young Men's Christian Association holds meetings. Also the Masonic Hall, 4th and Virginia avenue, s. e., where the Masons now meet. He held each place until these organizations raised sufficient means to purchase the property.

These alone are monuments to the colored people.

Mr. Bailey is the man to be elected as the colored delegate to the next republican convention, and he will be elected.

E. M. HEWLETT.

Justice White, of the Supreme Court of the United States for a writ of error, which was granted. Mr. Jones did not like many of our representative men, go in search for white lawyers to associate with him in the trial of the Constitutional question in the Supreme Court of the United States, but knowing E. M. Hewlett, Esq., and his standing and ability as a lawyer, associated him with him. We all know, and feel proud of Mr. Hewlett. He comes from old Cambridge, Mass., and is the son of the late Prof. A. Molyneux Hewlett, of Harvard University, under whose supervision the first gymnasium at that institution was built, and who, until the time of his death in 1871, was instructor there. Mr. Hewlett is a graduate of the Boston University, and practiced law in Boston for three years before he came to Washington. We learn that shortly after his admission to the bar he was engaged in several important cases which at once brought him to the front rank as a lawyer. He is a thorough race man, and has practiced among us since 1882, during which time he has been engaged in many important murder cases, and has never lost his man. He has a very extensive civil practice that is exceeded by few white lawyers at the bar. He is eloquent and effective before a jury.

Mr. Hewlett was nominated by President Harrison and confirmed by the Senate a day or two after, as one of the trial justices of the District, and President Cleveland on August 24, 1894, renominated him to serve four years longer, which nomination was confirmed the same day. No member of the District bar is more highly respected by judges and members than our chessterheld, E. M. Hewlett.

Mr. Jones came to Washington on October 21st last at the convening of the ENGLISH STAGE COACHES.

The First Were Thought Marvels of Comfort by the Britains.

Stage coaches were first used in England at the end of the seventeenth century. They are described in an old book by a traveler who says: "By stage coaches one may be transported to any place, sheltered from foul weather and foul ways, free from endamaging one's health or body by har-jogging or over-violent motion; and this not only at a low price, as about a shilling for every five miles, but with such velocity and speed as that thirty miles a day in summer and twenty-five in winter. Nine years later the journey from Nottingham to London occupied four days in winter. A writer in 1673 suggested that only one stage coach should go to every shire town in England, once a week, and that the speed should not be more than thirty miles a day in summer and twenty-five in winter. Nine years later the journey from Nottingham to London occupied four days in winter. A writer in the reign of William III describes England as exceeding all other nations in the matter of coaches, which he particularly praises for their expedition. "Some of these coaches," he says, "will travel about fifty miles in a summer day." The state of the road, in 1703 may be gathered from the fact that it took the King of Spain four teen hours to go from Portsmouth to Petworth, in Sussex. An attendant says that they did not get out of the coaches "save only when they were overturned or stuck fast in the mire," and the last nine miles took six hours to cover.

The fine kept roads which England enjoys to-day are due to the stage coach, and the comparison between the roads over which the first of them traveled and those of to-day is wide indeed.

Some Ancient Fat.

Dr. Dall, of the Smithsonian Institution, during his recent visit to Alaska, secured a natural history specimen that was a prize, indeed. It was a bit of mammoth fat from the actual adipose tissue of an animal that had been dead for tens of thousands of years. Bodies of mammoths in a fresh state have been dug up from time to time in Arctic Siberia, preserved in natural cold storage since a period probably antedating the first appearance of man on the earth. That is an old story; but this is the first known instance in which the soft parts of a beast of this species have been found on the American continent. It is easy to imagine the scientific interest attaching to the discovery.

Agos ago this mammoth died, under such circumstances that its corpus was buried in mud. At about that time there was a great and permanent change in the temperature of circum-polar regions. The climate had been sub-tropical; it suddenly became frigid. The mammoths were literally "frozen out," the last of the species perishing on the earth. That is an old story; but this is the first known instance in which the soft parts of a beast of this species have been found on the American continent. It is easy to imagine the scientific interest attaching to the discovery.

Hundreds of centuries later a stream flowing through an Alaskan valley tackled the clay bank referred to and began to cut it away. At length some big bones stuck out, and a native of exceptional courage dug out one or two of them. This required more of that quality known in civilized countries as "nerve" than might be imagined, for strange monsters, however long they may have been dead, are regarded with superstitious awe by savages.

However, the natives finally summoned courage enough to drag the remains of the mammoth out of the clay bank piecemeal. The body of the animal had been preserved so well that a fairly perfect cast of it was found in the matrix. A quantity of fat, which overlay the intestines, was obtained and was used for greasing boats. Dr. Dall secured a piece of it and fetched it back to Washington.

Curious Ways of Animals.

Mice seem to have a great fondness for all sorts of harmonic sounds, and have been known to come out of their holes and listen attentively to a boy whistling. Cows care nothing at all for music, nor as far as can be learned, do asses. Elephants and horses, on the other hand, are in some degree conscious of its charms and will often, when marching in procession, accommodate their step to the beat of the music. A prisoner in the Bastille who played upon the bag-pipes succeeded in attracting the attention of an spider, which, after several months, became a regular attendant at his daily concerts. But though music has no charm for the lion and tiger it has been discovered by a naturalist who has been conducting some experiments in the London Zoological Gardens, that these animals are instantly and powerfully affected by the smell of lavender water. Under its influence they become as docile as lambs, forgetting even hunger. The effect is not unlike that exerted upon cats by catnip and mint.

It has been generally supposed that the strains of music have a peculiar influence in subduing the untamed spirit of wild animals. This belief may possibly have been inculcated by the line "Music hath charms to soothe the savage beast." That this notion is a mistaken one is now agreed by all who have made a practical test of the matter. Dogs sometimes show their appreciation of music by emitting sympathetic howls. Cats, on the other hand, are apparently disgusted with harmonious sounds as produced by human agency, and at once retire to a distance, solacing themselves with their own vocal renditions. Singing birds, however, are charmingly affected, and trill as if their little breasts would break in the effort to surpass the performer. Hyenas, rhinoceroses, hippopotamuses, pigs, ostriches, deer, llamas, tigers, lions and leopards apparently are not affected by music, excepting that they occasionally show some curiosity.

A bad man's example often does more good than a good man's precept.

ANTARTIC EXPLORATION.

What the British Scientific Societies are Organizing to Carry Out.

Three great British scientific societies are agreed that it is the duty of the British Government to fit out an expedition for thorough antarctic exploration. In November, 1883, the Royal Geographical Society appointed a notable committee to inquire into the propriety of such an expedition and report. They reported in favor of having the Government send two suitable vessels to explore the south polar regions and keep them at it for three years. The report was adopted and transmitted to the Royal Society, which in turn appointed a powerful committee, which in May, 1884, reported strongly in favor of the scheme. At the beginning of the present year the council of the British Association gave the plan its vigorous endorsement, and it doubtless took further action on it at its recent annual meeting in September. The plan of Dr. John Murray, of the Challenger, who addressed the Royal Geographical Society on the subject two years ago, was to send out two suitable Government steamships of about 1,000 tons each, have them start in September, land a company of about ten men somewhere south of Cape Horn and another in Victoria Land and have them spend two years or more ashore, exploring the antarctic continent. The ships would land the shore parties the first summer, visit them the second, and take them on the third, and would spend their own winters and all their other available time in deep sea and other observations along the outer margin of the antarctic ice.

What may be found on the antarctic continent no man can say. Animal life in abundance was found last year at Cape Adair by C. E. Borchgrevink, a young Norwegian, who sailed there as one of the crew of a whaler, and whose account of his experiences excited interest at a recent geographical congress in London. Mr. Borchgrevink wants to go back, and writes to the London Times pressing for "further and immediate research within the antarctic circle." It is held to be possible that a new race of men may exist somewhere within hili of the south pole, and that such creatures as the ichthyosaurus may still survive in the antarctic seas. Seals and sea-birds are abundant there; what else no one can say; but many inquisitive persons want to know. Our countryman, Dr. Frederick Cook, greatly desired to fit out an American south polar expedition to start out this last fall and catch the next antarctic summer, but his efforts in that direction seem not yet to have come to anything. Perhaps he will do better another year; but at any rate there seems a real prospect that a serious attempt to find out whatever can be known about the antarctic continent will be made before the present century ends.—Harper's Weekly.

For Hands and Head.

At this season of the year it is almost impossible to keep the hands from chapping and looking red when they are in water as frequently as it is necessary to have them. Below is given a most excellent recipe for making Laureline, which is simply and easily prepared at home and very inexpensive:

Two ounces of glycerine, one ounce of alcohol, one-fourth ounce of gum tragacanth, one-fourth of one-half ounce of rose water or violet perfume, one pint of water. Soak the tragacanth in the water two days, then strain and add the other ingredients. Cut the glycerine with the alcohol. If it should be too thick add a little more water and alcohol. Bottle and it is ready for use. In very cold weather, if it is too thick to pour easily, heat by setting over the register or in a bowl of hot water.

While most people admit there is nothing better for the scalp than a thorough brushing of the hair morning and night, many will not persist in this and are continually asking what will make the hair come in when it is fast coming out. Many of the best hair dressers and barbers are recommending rubbing pure grease in very thoroughly every night or every other night. In several instances this has proven very effectual, and a new growth of short and strong fuzz all over the head has been the result.

Many children and some of an older growth are severely troubled with dandruff in the scalp, which always makes the head and hair look dirty. This can be removed by rubbing pure grease in every other night and in the mornings following wash thoroughly with tal soap.

The Antarctic Continent.

There is every reason to believe that the antarctic continent, certain evidences of the existence of which have but recently been discovered, is considerably larger than Europe in area. It contains more than 8,000,000 square miles. Mr. C. E. Borchgrevink, who has journeyed well into this region and has observed it carefully, declares that it contains some large and fierce carnivorous animals at present unknown to science. It will be remembered that neither the polar bear nor any other large carnivorous land animal has been found in antarctic latitudes. Mr. Borchgrevink, however, thinks that he has discovered traces of some such creature from the curious wounds observed on the backs of a number of seals. It was frequently noticed that the furry skins of these animals exhibited scars indicative of wounds they had received. At first it seemed reasonable to suppose that such wounds were received in the furious combats which, under certain circumstances, seals wage against each other. Careful examination of the traces of these wounds has shown that they could have been made only by some immense, powerful animal, at present unknown to zoologists.

The Good Old Times.

"Did you know," said the erudite customer, "that the striped barber pole is a relic of the days when barbers used to also practice the profession of surgery?"

"Gee, I wish it was that way now," the barber said; "I wouldn't care then how much the football craze bothered me."

Trumps.

The origin of the word "trump," as used in card playing, is said to be the French word "trionphe," equivalent to the English "triumph."

RIGHTS OF THE NEGRO ARGUED.

Supreme Court and he and Mr. Hewlett have been diligently at work on their case until Tuesday, December 17. On Friday December 13th final arguments began which were not concluded until late Monday afternoon, December 16. They expect an opinion from the Court on Monday December 23. This is the first time in the history of the Supreme Court that colored lawyers have conducted and argued cases in that Tribunal. We await anxiously the result.

OUR NEWS EDITOR.

The Anglo-saxon may boast of their female journalists, writers, etc., but it can be said that The BEE has one of the most gifted young lady writers in this country.

Aside from being a writer, Miss Anderson is a practical printer and to-day she can set type or a job of the most difficult character as well, if not better than any male printer in this country. She was born in the State of Virginia and came to The BEE office when she was but fifteen years old, as an apprentice, and last June made her seventh year in the business.

She remained at the case a little over 7 or 8 months and so apt was she in the art of setting type, and so bright was her ideas, she was soon made assistant foreman.

Her business was then to teach young ladies and boy apprentices, who were ambitious to learn the printing business.

In the mean time she was pursuing her studies at night, and by hard work she was soon able to write articles for the paper.

As a descriptive writer she has no equals among Afro-American female writers. She graduated with high honors from the Spencian Business College and was regarded as an apt student. Her essay on "Savings," which was written for the Washington Loan and Trust Company while at the college, was one of the twenty-five selected out of two hundred or more and was one of the first to be published in the Capital Savings Journal, and was the only Afro-American selected.

Before the Press Convention that was held in Chicago, Ill., she read a very fine paper, which was highly indorsed by the Richmond Planet and other Afro-American Journals.

She is the city editor of The BEE, and at the same time she edits and prepares the Fashion column and Pointers on the Side, which have become so popular in this paper. She is also one of the officers and stockholders in The BEE, which she has deservedly merited.

Miss Anderson is a Christian lady and a strong believer in the Baptist faith.

Her very refined and ladylike disposition have won for her a host of admirers in all stations of life.

As a journalist among Afro-American women she is in advance of them all.

As a printer, she has no equals among Afro-American women.

As a proof-reader, she compares favorably with any.

As a fancy job printer, she has no equal among her sex.

Her last success was the passage of a civil service examination, making a high percentage.

SPORTING EDITOR OF THE BEE.

The subject of this sketch is probably one of the best known men in this country, a fact which can be attributed to his position of many years as a manipulator of rare excellence of the festive glass, sports, and the further fact that the traveling public usually find their way to the hostelry over which he presides with much dignity and uniform courtesy.

People from all over the country, of whatever station in life, from Congressman to plebeian, remember Roy with equal facility.

In spite of the fact that he has been for some time living in the north-western section of the city, Capitol Hill, the scene of so many pleasant recollections of his childhood and incipient manhood, still has a warm place in his heart.

In his earlier days, the days of his youth, he was an unquestioned leader of his fellows, and his right to lead was generally conceded, because he was one of rugged frame, fertile in the invention of new games to amuse his playmates, and a natural boxer of surprising skill.

He was an industrious student, and was ambitious to make a mark for himself, but "Tis destiny that shapes our ends, rough hew them as we may," and his school career was abruptly terminated at a time when his future seemed most bright.

He secured employment at the United States' new jail, then in course of erection, where during his intermissions of labor he sedulously applied himself to athletic sports, all thoughts of future greatness, all thoughts of the realization of his dreams being dispelled by existing circumstances.

He acquired a proficiency in boxing that was the marvel of his companions, who soon yielded him the palm, and religiously kept away from his brawny right.

His most notable achievement, however, in the athletic world was pitching the famous Unique Base Ball Club into the championship, when it was thought that they had no possible chance.

In later years, when the exacting duties of his position prevented him from following the bent of his inclinations, he has devoted himself to the acquirement of a knowledge of sport in general that has stamped him as one of the best sporting writers in the country.

He is the pioneer in this kind of literary work, as no other colored man ever attempted to achieve fame or dollars in that direction.

He is a prominent Mason, being recently given the much-sought-after 33rd, and is also an indefatigable worker in the Mystic Shrine, and has been recently given the high privilege of keeping the Book of Records in his Blue Lodge.

He is of convivial habits, in fact an ideal bon camarade and is much sought after by the boys when he takes a day for recreation.

Mr. Roy is still a bachelor at the age of 36, and if he maintains his state of celibacy much longer we shall have to pronounce him a hopeless case.

BIG FIRES IN CHICAGO.

Piano, Furniture and Shoe Firms Burned Out.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—The four-story brick building at Nos. 178 and 180 Wabash avenue, occupied by piano, furniture and shoe firms, with its valuable contents, was almost entirely gutted by fire at 11 o'clock last night. When the firemen broke into No. 178 a watchman was lying in his night clothing just inside the door. He had made an effort to escape, but was overcome before he could get to the door. He is in a critical condition. In No. 180 two men were sleeping on the top floor in the rooms of C. H. Frost. Mike Aschewer, one of the men, made his way to the second floor, but finding the flames had cut off the escape by the stairs he jumped from a second-story window into the alley, receiving serious injuries. Arthur W. Watson, the other man, got no further than the third floor, from which he was taken by firemen. Nothing in the building escaped damage, and the loss will be over $100,000.

Fire in the notion house of H. Wolf & Co. at 7 o'clock yesterday morning caused a loss of between $200,000 and $300,000 on the stock and about $50,000 on the building, which was owned by the Conrad Seipp estate. Both the stock and the building were fully insured. The house of Wolf & Co. is in the heart of the wholesale district, and for four hours the firemen fought the fire to keep it from spreading. A. W. Hayward & Co., wholesale shoes, and the Steuben Wine Company suffered slight losses from water. The fire was caused by the burning of an over-charged electric wire. John Dore, a member of a hook and ladder company, was in the building when a burning ceiling fell. He was seriously injured.

MORE APACHE MURDERS.

An Entire Family of Five Victims—"Apache Kid" the Leader.

Deming, N. M., Dec. 11.—Word has just been received that an entire family, consisting of father, mother and three children, were murdered by Apaches near Bowie station, on the Southern Pacific, last Thursday. Indians were seen by cowboys, who counted thirty-five of them crossing the trail. By the time the news of the murder spread, the Indians were miles away and ready to swear that they were peaceable and were simply out on a hunting expedition.

The scene of the recent murders is close to the abandoned Fort Bowie. Cowboys are said to have had a fight with Indians on Sunday in the vicinity of Solomonville. The troops from Fort Bayard, under Lieut. Clark, are at Stein's Pass, close to the international boundary line, to prevent the passage of the redskins over the Sierra Madre. The military are displaying great energy, and it is believed by the authorities that they will be able to drive the Indians back on their reservation. It is thought that "Apache Kid" is at the head of these raids.

Knew a Robber's Cache.

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 11.—A stranger went into the office of E. W. Gilbert, division superintendent of the Northern Pacific Railroad, yesterday and said: "I can tell you where there is a cache of $20,000 to $40,000 in money that was stolen from your company hidden away in the mountains near Hope." The stranger bore the appearance of respectability and seemed to be perfectly sane. The man gave his name as James B. Boyd and said that he had gained the confidence of W. B. Withers, a prisoner in the county jail charged with train robbery, who had revealed to him the secret of where he had $30,000 or more in cash hidden away, which he represented as being the proceeds of two train robberies, one on the Southern Pacific, near Sacramento, and the other on the Northern Pacific, near Montana.

Peckham is Confirmed.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The Senate in executive session yesterday confirmed the nomination of Rufus W. Peckham to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. Albany, Dec. 10.—Judge Peckham will go to Washington the first week in January to assume his judicial position. He declined to be interviewed today in regard to his future plans and refused to define his position on the income tax.

Gold From Country Banks.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—During the past ten days the gold reserve has been increased $200,000 through the Chicago Sub-Treasury by money received from country banks. Sub-Treasury officials say the country banks are giving up their gold, but the city banks do not seem very anxious to help swell the reserve.

Well Known Conductor Dead.

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 10.—James O. Van Dine died at pneumonia at his home in this city yesterday afternoon at the age of fifty-five years. He was for many years conductor on the Niagara Falls branch of the New York Central road and was widely known by travelers from all parts of the United States and Canada.

Small Fox on the Ohio.

Cleveland, Dec. 10.—Dispatches to the Press say that the small-pox epidemic has again broken out along the Ohio River. There are now fourteen cases at Bridgeport and four at Martin's Ferry. The epidemic was caused by the public funeral of a man who died from the disease.

Rome Train Wreckers Gilty.

Rome, Dec. 10.—The coroner's jury in the case of the train wreck on November 13 last evening brought in a verdict which found J. W. Hildreth, Theodore Hibbard, Fred Bristol and Herbert Platte guilty of causing the accident with the intention of murder and robbery.

No One Guilty.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 10.—Coroner Arbuckle has rendered his verdict in the violent disaster in which eighteen people were killed. He finds no one guilty in the case.

FIGHTING IN ABYSSINIA.

Italian Troops Surprised and Surrounded by King Menelik's Army.

Rome, Dec. 10.—Gen. Baratieri, commander of the Italian forces in Abyssinia, cables that King Menelik's army, numbering about 20,000 men, surprised and surrounded Sunday five companies of Italian troops under Major Toselli at Ambalagi. Another body of Italian troops under Gen. Arimondi went to support Major Toselli, but were stopped by the enemy. A severe battle was fought subsequently, the result of which is not made known here. The official dispatches say that the losses of the Abyssinians were heavy, yet leave the public in the dark as to the Italian losses.

Major Toselli's column was composed of 1,200 native troops commanded by twenty officers, with forty non-commissioned officers and a mounted battery. It has been ascertained unofficially that seventeen of those officers and 900 native troops are missing. The position of Gen. Arimondi at Makall, however, is impregnable, and he has provisions for a three months' siege.

King Humbert conferred with Premier Crispien last night upon the situation, the Premier being indisposed and confined to his room. The Government was questioned in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday regarding the reported disaster to the Italian troops in Abyssinia. Replying to a question as to the particulars of the battle of Ambalagi, the War Minister, Gen. Mocenigo, read Gen. Baratieri's dispatch, the substance of which is given above, and he added that the Italian positions are secure. He admitted, however, that the affair was serious, although entirely reparable.

Sig. Imbriani, a Socialist leader, made a violent speech in opposition to the Government's policy in Africa. Other Socialists also denounced the policy. A Cabinet council held last night decided to give Gen. Baratieri the necessary means to crush the Abyssinians.

ALL HANDS LOST BUT ONE

Afire at Sea, the Principia Sinks Fast and Founders on a Rock.

Leith, Scotland, Dec. 10.—The British steamer Principia, of the Arrow line, Capt. R. B. Stannard, from Shields November 13, via Dundee November 16, bound for New York, took fire under the port hatch while 140 miles north of Cape Wrath, off the northwestern extremity of Scotland. She was put before the wind and headed for the Faroe Islands. On approaching land she struck a rock and went down in forty fathoms. Twenty-six of the ship's crew and a passenger named Jackson were drowned. The only member of the crew saved is Henry Anders, of Rostock. He had been clinging to the wreckage for eighteen hours when rescued by a boat from shore.

The Principia was a barkentine-rigged screw steamer of 1,790 tons net register, and 2,549 tons gross. She was built at Newcastle in 1880 by the Palmers. Her rating in Lloyd's was AL. She had three decks and five bulkheads. Her dimensions were: Length, 318 feet; breadth of beam, 39 feet, and depth of hold, 24 feet. She had formerly been in the Chinese trade. She was narrower than some vessels of her length and depth in engine power, of 3,000 horse-power, with cylinders 34x70 inches and a 48-inch stroke. She was valued at $75,000. The value of her cargo amounted to about $25,000.

SHE CONTINUES TO SLEEP.

All Efforts to Awaken Miss Barton Unavailing.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Dec. 10.—Miss Pearl Barton, of Centre Moreland, Wyoming County, has been asleep continuously since November 27 and shows no signs of awakening. The girl, who is sixteen years old, has always had fair health, and has never slept longer than the usual eight or nine hours until now. On the morning of November 28, when she did not arise at the usual time, her mother, Mrs. Henry Barton, called her, but she continued to sleep. Later in the day a doctor was sent for, but he suggested that she be allowed to sleep until she should awake naturally. She has not awakened since and every effort made by the doctors to arouse her has been unavailing. The girl seems to be in good health; her breathing is regular, and her pulse a little below the normal. She talks in her sleep. She is beginning to lose weight.

Greenway Out in a Card.

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 10.—Premier Greenway publishes a denial of the rumor that he contemplates compromise with the Dominion authorities on the parochial school question. The Premier's statement bears out what has been previously telegraphed as to the probable determination of the Manitoba Prime Minister to resist to the bitter end the re-establishment of the Catholic schools. The Premier states that no concession will be regarded as satisfactory to his Government unless the principle of State-aided separate schools be granted. "The re-establishment by the Government of separate schools," he adds, "will be no compromise."

Trolley Victim No. 133.

Brooklyn, Dec. 10.—Fischer Serber, of No. 24 Moore street, six years old, is the one hundred and thirty-third victim of the trolley in this city. He was killed at noon yesterday, at Moore and Graham avenues, by car No. 1930 of the Flushing and Graham avenue line, on its way to the Fulton ferry. Motor-man William Buckley, of No. 39 Hopkins street, and Conductor Thomas Rooney, of No. 644 Flushing avenue, were arrested and locked up in the Stagg street precinct, charged with homicide.

One Body Still Missing.

Brewsters, N. Y., Dec. 10.—At the Tilly Foster mine yesterday afternoon two more bodies were recovered, making a total of twelve so far taken out. The bodies unearthed were those of Italians and were mangled beyond recognition. There is still one body that of an Italian, missing.

The Skeleton in the Faure Closet.

Paris, Dec. 10.—The Figaro reveals the exploded alleged secret in President Faure's family history. It proves to be simply that his wife's mother was abandoned by her husband two months after marriage.

A hard cold, advice it is, for a person to advise one to do what they fail to do themselves.

The greatest mistake that most so-called conversationalists make is to commence talking on first introduction of ancient history.

Beware of the man who is continually looking for "ladies" for he is a sinner of the deepest dye and only seeks their degradation.

A man whose motives are pure, will treat every woman with respect, and when he detects one who is not a lady, he will treat her with the uttermost contempt.

The impression made by saying pleasant things is much deeper and more lasting if uttered in a sweet voice than if spoken in a harsh disagreeable voice.

Bessie: If you wish to have something new for the holidays in the way of entertaining, I would suggest to have a "topic dinner of twenty-five courses." At the beginning of each course, a new topic should be introduced and discussed throughout the course.

Many a young girl is actually fidgety because she thinks to be a success she must be "full of life," and always on the go. If such is one's temperament it may be sometimes attractive, though it is very tiresome.

When a man you don't remember at all plunges into a conversation, a habit of repose will enable you to keep an unmoved and quiet demeanor till something he says enables you to "place" him.

The girl who is always in a hurry to gable would betray herself at once.

Let all young women take to cultivating the ability to be quiet, and they will find and promptly appreciate its social values.

Be your own counselor. Remember the old adage, "three may keep a secret, if two of them are dead."

Pretended manners are not very becoming. No matter how fine a person may look, except their manners are natural and that of every day, it can be detected with an unfavorable impression at once.

Cultivate a short memory as to all unkindness and forbearance till your heart yields a fine crop of it.

Act as if you expected to live a hundred years, but might die to-morrow.

It is not wise for a girl to marry a man with the idea of reforming him, though some men are reformed and stay reformed through the influence of a good woman.

No one was ever reformed by scolding, sarcasm or fault finding or complaints, for such soon becomes an old story, where kindness is always new.

Pay but little attention to mean small things, bear not malice and remember that "he shall be judged without mercy, who has shown no mercy."

A person who has not the self-respect to save himself will not respect any one enough to be saved by them from degradation.

Gentlemen are never over-dressed, nor boisterous and are never effusive. Girls should take warning.

One does not need to be beautiful to be attractive. A pleasant manner, a great deal of consideration and an interesting mode of speech, not only attracts, but holds admiration where absolute beauty often fails.

If you are associating with a person whose influence does not seem to be for your good, it is wise to discontinue such acquaintance.

Reader: I fully agree with you that a word of praise does everybody good and it would be well if more people said kind words to one another.

Don't draw out your words into long tails or clip them into docked stumps, nor loop them on to others with chains of "ers."

When you're conversing, don't allow a small trifle like a spider on the wall, or a butterfly on the lawn distract you. Pay undivided attention to the conversation on hand.

Marriages means partnership for life and divorces are merely exceptions that prove the rule.

Dear girls. Do remember that talk is cheap and can be made to order as fast as the wily tongue of men can talk.

THE NEWSIEST AND BEST JOURNAL PUBLISHED.

The Washington Bee is no doubt the newsiest and best journal published by an Afro-American in this country. The Bee contains more news than any two weeklies published anywhere in the United States.

Here is what our exchanges say:

THE BEE HIVE DUMPED.
[From the American Star.]
Washington newspaper publishers are getting up in the world. Friend Cooper has removed the Colored American's old hat and put on a regular "Dunlap" headgear, while Brother Chase politely dumped the "old hive" and procured a brand new hive with artistic cells, and of course the Bee is humming. Both papers are beautiful. We like to see it, if we can't.

"BETTER LATE THAN NEVER."
[From the Texas Freeman.]
We are just a trifle late in saying so, but the Washington Bee has made mechanical changes that improve its appearance and reflect credit on the management.

[From the Appeal.]
The Washington Bee recently made considerable improvement in its appearance and enlarged its size to a quarto. Since his late little unpleasantness Chase seems to be "stronger than ever."

[From Newspaperdom.]
The Washington (D. C.) Bee has been enlarged and substantially improved. The general tone and character of the Bee sustain the place and name it has made for itself under the editorial management of William Calvin Chase.

[From the Fourth Estate.]
THE BEE BUSIER THAN EVER.
The Washington (D. C.) Bee has been enlarged and substantially improved. It is now an eight-page paper. The general tone and character of the Bee sustain the place and name it has made for itself under the editorial management of William Calvin Chase.

[From the Southern Forge.]
The Washington Bee comes to us this week in great shape. It has a new head and twice the size. Brother Chase is going ahead. And if you bother the Bee you'll get "stinged."

[From the Alexandria Leader.]
The Washington Bee has purchased an entire new outfit. The Bee will be issued as eight-page paper. May success attend the Bee.

[From the Evening Star.]
ENLARGED TO EIGHT PAGES.
The Washington Bee appeared Saturday, enlarged and substantially improved, as an eight-page paper. It also presented many illustrated features, including portraits of Major Moore, Commissioner Ross and other District officials and prominent citizens. The general tone and character of the Bee sustain the place and name it has made for itself under the editorial management of William Calvin Chase.

The leading editorial Saturday pledges support to Gov. McKinley's candidacy for President.

[From the Western Optic.]
The Washington, D. C., Bee is out in a new dress of type and with its improved make-up now ranks with the foremost Negro newspapers in America. May the Bee improve each shining hour.

[From the Athens Clipper.]
The last issue of the Washington Bee presents a very pleasant appearance to the public. It has eight pages abounding in rich reading matter. Editor Chase has lost none of his old time vigor in wielding the pen. The Clipper congratulates the Bee and hopes it and its editor may live many years to sting the enemies of the race.

[From the Baltimore Standard.]
The Washington Bee comes to us this week in an eight-page form, and much improved every way. Editor Chase is to be congratulated.

[From the Chicago A. M. E. Record.]
The Washington Bee came out last week, considerably improved. It is now a six-column quarto, and has the appearance of property stamped upon all of its departments.

THE STING OF THE BEE.
From the Wide Wake.
Here's to you editor Chase on the successful appearance of The Bee. May it continue to sting the wayward.

HEWING TO THE LINE.
[From the Chicago Republican.]
Brother Chase of the Bee, is still hewing to the line in Washington. He certainly has the courage of his convictions. A recorder of deeds in Washington cuts no figure with Chase.

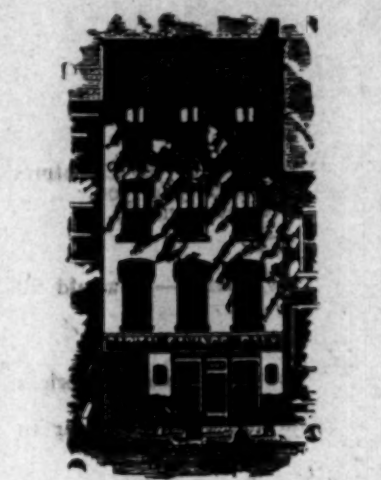

CONGRATULATES THE BEE.
WILLIAMSPORT, PA.,
October 12, 1895.
W. Calvin Chase.
Dear Sir: Inclosed find check for the amount I owe you. I congratulate you upon the improvement of the new issue of your paper. I am glad to see you are aiming aright for the future as you have always done in the past.

With best wishes for your success, I am, yours, respectfully,
Mrs. M. A. HAGAN.

DR. PHIL. BROOME BROOKS, M. D.

The youngest and no doubt one of the most successful physicians in this city is Dr. Phil. Broome Brooks. This young and eminent physician was born in this city September 28th 1864.

He is the son of John H. Brooks, a prominent brick maker and a man of means. His mother is Mrs. Laura C. Brooks, born in this city.

Dr. Brooks was reared by his aunt, Mrs. Annie E. Magruder, who took him in charge when he was six weeks old.

When but a boy he received aid and encouragement from two white gentlemen, Messrs. Saville and Cox in the Glover building 1419 F St. N. W., where he received the first inspiration to prepare himself for the study of medicine.

While he was performing his duties as an elevator conductor, he embraced every leisure moment to his books. By hard study and forbearance he succeeded in obtaining an academic and classic education.

These white friends thought it best that he should study a profession, so he entered the medical department of Howard University from which he was graduated in 1889, and the Pharmaceutical in 1890, which gave him the degrees, M. D., Ph. D.

To-day he is recognized as one of the leading physicians in the city and the youngest. His practice is immense and the people in the southwest, the vicinity of his birth place honor and respect him.

Dr. Brooks is a member of the United Supreme Council of A. A. S. R. for Southern and Western Jurisdiction, U. S. Grand Orient, Washington, D. C., 33rd.

Pythagoras Lodge, No. 9, F. A. A. M. Gethsemane Commandry, Knights Templar, No. 3, Green Mountain Lodge, No. 1477, G. U. of O. F. and five other secret organizations.

In personal appearance Dr. Brooks is neat in dress; socially he is popular with everyone. One would take him to be a foreigner from his accent and his refined vernacular. No physician stands higher in the estimation of the people than this rising young man.

No young man is more thought of and more sought after than this young physician.

He is kindhearted, liberal and charitable and with these noble qualities in man or woman there is no such word as fail.

The wish of The BEE is that he may continue to his tender spot in the hearts of the people and his pathway be strewn with fragrant flowers.

DELEGATE CONTEST.

There seems to be some doubt among the politicians, as to who will be the strongest and best man to represent the republican party from this city in the next national convention.

The BEE has printed a list of the gentlemen who have been mentioned as candidates, and as an inducement to make this contest interesting, the BEE will present a fine gold headed cane to the candidate who receives the highest number of coupons. The coupons will be received and counted by the contest editor, and all coupons will be kept and counted in the presence of a committee to consist of one friend from each candidate.

Each coupon will count one vote, which must be sent to the contest-editor of the BEE.

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE.

WHO WILL THE NEXT DELEGATES BE? VOTE FOR YOUR CHOICE.

The coming Republican contest for delegates to the next National Republican Convention will be a hot one. Public meetings have been held throughout the city, and it is still undecided who the most popular man is.

As a test of each man's strength the BEE will publish the list of the probable candidates, with a coupon attached, which will enable friends of each candidate to vote for his choice.
